ACCESS AGREEMENT

What we provide: One year access to the website www.arresthistory.com.

Terms you agree to: You understand that the information on www.arresthistory.com is being provided by other parties, collected and formatted by us and put into an easily searchable and readable format. Because we are not the original source of this information, we have no way to guarantee its accuracy. Just because a name is or is not listed, does not guarantee that the individual has or does not have a conviction history in Connecticut. If you need a guarantee, contact the state police and ask them how you can get an "official" record check. The only way to positively link someone to a criminal record is through fingerprint identification. This site should be considered to be a Consumer Reporting Agency (CRA) as described in the Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA). In using this site, you agree that you will follow all of the appropriate rules and laws governed by the FCRA. It is your responsibility to make sure that the records you access on this site pertain to the person about whom you are seeking information. You assume all responsibility for any errors or omissions resulting from the use of this website. The information on this site seems pretty accurate but the attorneys insist on this disclaimer. The CRMV Database will be updated monthly. The Criminal Conviction Database and Traffic Ticket Database should be updated quarterly. Other databases may be updated annually.

Access to this site is via the Internet which does go down. We have no way of controlling this; therefore, we make no guarantee that the site will be up and running 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Hurricanes, tornados, floods, lightning, locust and other forces of nature as well as technical problems and updates may cause this site to be temporarily unavailable.

Your license to access this site is for only you to use. You will not share your username and password with anyone else. If you think someone else has your logon name and password, you must notify us immediately. If you are purchasing access as an individual, only you may access the site for personal use or single business use.

All activities on this site are logged by us. When you use this site, your username and your IP Number are recorded as well as what records you are viewing. If we see that there are multiple logons with the same username coming from different IP Numbers, we may terminate your access to this site and no refund will be given. If it appears that your username and password were stolen or used without authorization, we may file a criminal complaint. Because we log the IP Number, time and date this site is accessed, unauthorized access can be traced. Prior to reactivating your account, we will insist on an affidavit from you stating that no one had permission to use your account and we may seek prosecution as defined in Connecticut General Statute 53a-251 for "Unauthorized Access to a Computer System".
